

Cynthia, here is what we have accomplished so far:

- Created database with fake data for owners, animals, and notes
- Edited the website to make it look better
- Readied webpages to be put on a server
- Fine tuned the navigation bar
- Added login drop down menu to the navigation bar
- Added green checks and black x on the tables
- Completed pagination for tables

Adding the ability for owners and admins to login and use the navigation bar was on the schedule for milestone 1. There is a login option but is not functional right now. Functionality for the login will be complete on the finished product. Completed ahead of schedule was the table pagination. Tables now display 10 animals at a time with the option to move from page to page. Additionally, you can select from a dropdown to jump to multiples of ten. You can view the work we have done so far at <https://github.com/Tyler491/pawstocare> where there is a more detailed description of the website. Thank you!
